TERMS OF PARTICIPATION

First Polish National Scientific Conference "Non-Conventional and Renewable Energy 2027" ENiO’27

Warsaw, 12–13 October 2027 | Warsaw House of Technology NOT, 3/5 Czackiego Street

§ 1. General provisions

The First Polish National Scientific Conference "Non-Conventional and Renewable Energy 2027" (ENiO’27), hereinafter the "Conference", is a two-day event devoted to:

- Biogas in agricultural, food and livestock production;
- Management of digestate;
- Coal in the context of the energy transition;
- Solar and wind energy in industry and agriculture;
- Geothermal energy and heat pumps on farms;
- Energy storage and management;
- Artificial intelligence for energy devices and systems.

The Conference will take place on 12–13 October 2027 at the Warsaw House of Technology NOT, 3/5 Czackiego Street, Warsaw.

The Conference organiser is R&W Rozwój i Wdrożenie Sp. z o.o., with its registered office in Sosnowiec, Polish tax identification number (NIP) 6443603404, REGON 545800431, email: kontakt@rwrozwoj.pl, hereinafter the "Organiser".

These Terms set out the rules for registration and participation in the Conference, payment, withdrawal, complaints, and the rights and obligations of Participants and the Organiser.

These Terms form an integral part of a Conference registration and apply to all Participants. Insofar as promotional services and Partners’ displays are concerned, they also apply to entities taking part under separate partnership agreements.

The official Conference website is forum-enio.pl. The Organiser may publish information about the programme, speakers, Partners, registration rules and organisational changes there.

§ 2. Participation in the Conference

Participants may be individuals and representatives of businesses, research institutions, public administration, local government bodies, industry organisations, farms and other institutions or organisations who register correctly and, where required, pay the participation fee.

- Participation requires completion of the registration form made available by the Organiser.
- Where participation is subject to a fee, participation requires payment of the amount specified by the Organiser in the registration form, offer or pro forma invoice.
- The fee must be paid within 14 days of issue of the pro forma invoice, unless the Organiser specifies another deadline on the invoice or in an individual offer.
- The Organiser confirms registration by email sent to the address provided during registration.

- Persons receiving free invitations or admission under partnership agreements participate under the terms of those agreements and need not purchase a further ticket unless the partnership agreement provides otherwise.
- Places may be limited. Correctly submitted registrations will be accepted in order of receipt, subject to places reserved for Partners, speakers and invited guests.

§ 3. Conference programme and organisation

The Conference programme is published on the Organiser’s website. The Organiser reserves the right to change the programme, the order of presentations, the speakers and the times of individual programme items where organisational considerations justify this.

A programme change does not give rise to a Participant claim if it does not result in the cancellation of the entire Conference.

The Conference may include specialist presentations, scientific and expert sessions, panel discussions, Partner presentations, educational and promotional activities, and networking.

The Organiser will use due care to ensure the Conference runs properly but is not responsible for disruptions beyond its control affecting access to the venue or services provided by third parties.

§ 4. Fees, invoices and withdrawal

Current participation prices, where participation is subject to a fee, are stated in the registration form, offer or individual agreement with the Participant.

The price may vary according to the registration date, ticket type, available promotions or individual conditions set by the Organiser.

The payer is the entity identified as the purchaser of the service in the registration form or on the invoice.

Failure to pay by the deadline may result in cancellation of the registration and refusal of admission to the Conference.

A Participant may withdraw by sending the Organiser a written or electronic notice. The deadline for withdrawal without charge and the rules for refunding the fee are stated in the registration form or individual offer.

If a Participant withdraws after the deadline set by the Organiser, the Organiser may retain all or part of the fee to the extent corresponding to costs incurred in preparing that Participant’s attendance.

With the Organiser’s agreement, a Participant may designate another person to attend in their place, provided this is done before the Conference begins and does not conflict with an individual offer.

§ 5. Partners and promotional materials

An entity participates as a Conference Partner under a separate partnership agreement. That agreement defines the promotional services, the use of the logo, the display of materials and any invitations for the Partner’s representatives.

The services may include publishing the Partner’s name and logo on the Conference website, in promotional materials and event communications, and displaying materials during the Conference. The scope follows from the individual partnership agreement.

The Partner must provide the Organiser with a logo in a format suitable for proper use and with promotional materials by the agreed deadline. These provisions correspond to the obligations in the partnership agreement.

§ 6. Participant responsibility and participation rules

- Participants are responsible for information, materials, presentations, advertisements, logos and other content they provide to the Organiser or present at the Conference.
- Materials used by Participants must not infringe third-party rights, in particular copyright, trademark rights, personal rights or the law.
- Participants must comply with the safety rules of the Warsaw House of Technology NOT and the instructions of the Organiser and venue staff.
- The Organiser may refuse admission to a person or entity whose activities or conduct violate Conference rules, the law, accepted standards of conduct or the legitimate interests of the Organiser or other Participants.
- Participants may not undertake promotional activities outside the scope agreed with the Organiser, particularly in a manner that disrupts the Conference or infringes Partners' rights.

§ 7. Photographs, recordings and image rights

Photographs and audio or video recordings may be made during the Conference to document the event.

The Organiser may use these materials to document and provide information about the Conference in informational, promotional and marketing materials, subject to applicable law and any required consent.

A Participant who does not want their likeness used in such materials should notify the Organiser before the event begins or immediately after a photograph or recording is made.

Recording the entire Conference by Participants using audiovisual equipment requires the Organiser's prior consent. This does not apply to short, private recordings for personal use, provided they do not disrupt the event or infringe other persons' rights.

§ 8. Complaints

Complaints concerning the organisation or conduct of the Conference must be submitted to the Organiser in writing or electronically.

A complaint should include at least the Participant's name or business name, contact details, a description of the event giving rise to the complaint and the Participant's request.

Complaints should be submitted no later than seven days after the Conference ends.

The Organiser will consider a complaint within 14 days of receipt and inform the Participant of the outcome.

§ 9. Cancellation, rescheduling and force majeure

If the Conference is cancelled for reasons solely attributable to the Organiser, the Organiser will inform Participants and refund fees for services not provided under the terms stated in the cancellation notice.

The Organiser reserves the right to change the Conference date for important reasons beyond its control, particularly events that prevent the Conference from being held as scheduled.

If the Conference is postponed, the Organiser will inform Participants of the new date. A Participant may accept the transfer of their registration to the new date or request settlement of the fee under the rules stated by the Organiser.

Force majeure includes, in particular, extraordinary and unforeseeable events beyond the Organiser's control whose effects could not have been prevented with due care.

In the event of force majeure, the Organiser may change the date, format or venue of the Conference if this enables it to take place. Fees will be settled taking into account costs already incurred by the Organiser and applicable law.

§ 10. Personal data protection — GDPR

The controller of the personal data of Participants and persons registering is R&W Rozwój i Wdrożenie Sp. z o.o., 8 Wojska Polskiego Street, 41-208 Sosnowiec, Poland, email: kontakt@rwrozwoj.pl.

Personal data are processed in particular to register and administer Conference participation, organise and document the event, contact Participants, handle accounts and payments, and establish, pursue or defend potential claims, on the applicable legal bases set out in the GDPR.

The scope of processing corresponds to the information supplied during registration and may include, in particular, name, position, entity name, business contact details and information required to issue accounting documents.

Data may be disclosed to entities processing data on the Organiser's behalf, in particular providers of IT, registration, accounting, legal, postal and courier services, and entities involved in organising the Conference, to the extent necessary for the event.

Participants have the rights provided by the GDPR, including access, rectification, erasure, restriction of processing and data portability, and, where provided by law, the right to object or withdraw consent.

The full privacy notice on personal data processing may be included in the registration form or attached to these Terms.

§ 11. Final provisions

Submitting a registration form or entering into a partnership agreement signifies acceptance of these Terms insofar as they concern the person or entity in question.

Matters not governed by these Terms are subject to Polish law, in particular the Polish Civil Code.

Disputes arising from Conference participation will first be resolved amicably. If no agreement is reached, jurisdiction will be determined under applicable law, subject to the provisions of individual agreements with Partners.

The Organiser may amend these Terms for important organisational, legal or technical reasons. Amendments will be published on the Conference website and will not affect rights acquired by Participants who registered before the amendments took effect, unless an amendment is required by mandatory provisions of law.

These Terms take effect on the date they are published on the Conference website.

ANNEX 1 — GDPR PRIVACY NOTICE

In accordance with Articles 13 and 14 of Regulation (EU) 2016/679 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 27 April 2016 on the protection of natural persons with regard to the processing of personal data and on the free movement of such data, and repealing Directive 95/46/EC (the "GDPR"), we inform you as follows.

The controller of your personal data is R&W Rozwój i Wdrożenie Sp. z o.o., with its registered office at 8 Wojska Polskiego Street, 41-208 Sosnowiec, Poland.

You may contact the Controller by post at its registered address or by email at kontakt@rwrozwoj.pl.

Your personal data will be processed for the following purposes:

- Entering into and performing a contract, under Article 6(1)(b) GDPR, in relation to a contracting party who is a sole trader.
- Carrying out activities on behalf of and for a contracting party, under Article 6(1)(f) GDPR, in relation to that party's representatives. The legitimate interest is the need to process the personal data of persons representing a contracting party in order to enter into and perform a contract with that party.
- Performing a contract with a contracting party, under Article 6(1)(f) GDPR, in relation to persons designated to perform the contract and other employees of the contracting party. The legitimate interest is the need to process these persons' personal data for proper performance of the contract, particularly communications and ongoing cooperation.
- Establishing, pursuing or defending claims, under Article 6(1)(f) GDPR. The legitimate interest is providing legal protection for the Controller.
- Fulfilling the Controller's legal obligations, under Article 6(1)(c) GDPR in conjunction with relevant legal provisions.

If you are a person designated to perform the contract or another employee of the contracting party, the Controller may process your name, position and business contact details. We obtained those data from your employer, which is our contracting party.

If you represent a contracting party and you did not provide your personal data directly to the Controller, we obtained them from the contracting party you represent. These data comprise your name, position and business contact details.

Your personal data may be disclosed to entities providing the Controller with services connected with entering into and performing the contract, including IT providers, auditors, accountants and legal advisers.

Where the Controller uses entities supporting its activities or the performance of a contract with a contracting party, personal data may be transferred to a third country. If that country is not covered by a European Commission adequacy decision, the Controller applies appropriate safeguards, in particular standard contractual clauses. To obtain details of the safeguards, including a copy of the document forming the basis for the transfer, write to kontakt@rwrozwoj.pl.

Personal data of contracting parties who are sole traders will be retained for the duration of the contract and then for the period required by law to account for the contract.

Personal data of representatives of contracting parties will be retained for the duration of the contract and then for the period required by law to account for it. The data may also be erased following an effective objection to processing.

Personal data of persons designated to perform the contract and other employees of a contracting party will be retained for the duration of the contract or until the designated person is replaced or the contracting party designates another employee authorised to perform it. The data may also be erased following an effective objection to processing.

In all cases, personal data may be retained until the limitation period for possible legal claims expires.

You have the right to access, rectify and erase your data, restrict processing, obtain data portability and object to processing. You also have the right to lodge a complaint with the President of the Polish Personal Data Protection Office (Prezes Urzędu Ochrony Danych Osobowych).

Providing personal data by a sole trader or a person representing a contracting party (for example, a member of its management board) is a condition for entering into a contract. These persons are not obliged to provide the data, but failure to do so will prevent the contract from being concluded and performed.